

Figs

Look:

Figs are small and green when unripe. Once ripened they range from brown to purple. They have a pear like shape with a flattened base and short thick neck.

Taste:

The taste of a fig is rich, sweet and berry like. The texture is soft and chewy.

Touch:

The figs skin have a smooth texture that is thin and delicate. The inside is soft and squishy.

The fig is completely edible!

They can be eaten whole once the stem is removed!

Did you know?

Nearly every species of a fig tree is pollinated by its own species of fig wasps!

Nutritionals

Figs are high in:

